An Anonymous Note Answered.
HOPKINSVILLE, KY, July 14, 1886.
Editor New Era:
The following note was found on my counter this morning:
"I have no means of knowing who left this note, as it was left during my ab sence, and the author was too cowardly to sign his name to his false insinuat ion. I have a small amount of respect for the man who will steal, or lie, or kill his fellow man, but none whatever for the cowardly one who masquerading as a man writes anonymous letters contain ing malicious and lying insinuations on a man's business habits. I have made it a point to attend closely to my business and as a result have been lo sing a good business. If the miserable disgrace to humanity who wrote the above will attend as strictly to his own affairs as I do, he will fare better than he will if I find out who he is."
C. B. EADES.

A BRILLIANT WEDDING.
Married on an Express Train Sur rounded by a Company of Friends.
The marriage of Miss Camille Mar tin, of this city, to Mr. R. Y. Stevens, of Nashville, Monday evening, was a complete surprise to the Hopkinsville friends of the contracting parties. The event had been long expected, but the sudden and happy consummation of the affair was a genuine pleasure as well as a surprise to the friends of one of our most accomplished young ladies.
Monday afternoon Mrs. Sallie Martin, mother of the bride, Master Hugh Mar tin, Mrs. R. A. Burnett, Miss Mae Bur nett and wife, and I. Burnett and wife, and the charming betrothed, Miss Camille Martin, left on the 5 o'clock train for the South, destination unknown to even their most intimate friends. When the train reached Springfield, Tenn., the merry party found themselves surrounded by a com pany of friends waiting them, and were driven to the residence of Judge Garner, where they were right royally enter tained. When the North bound express train from Nashville pulled into the de pot a few hours later, the same gallant party, now increased by the presence of the courteous Judge Garner and his ac complished daughter, Mrs. Hart, stood on the platform ready for a happy journey through the hills and new moun tains of Tennessee and Kentucky.
They were ushered into a special car containing the groom and a bevy of his friends from Nashville, Colum bia, Memphis and Texas. A com munion more and the train, sped out on its journey to the North. Barely were the introductions finished when the city of Dr. Strickland, of Nashville, arose and in a manner most felicitous joined the two hearts into a union sanctioned by heaven and blessed by all mankind; and as the train moved with rapid gallop among the flowery, moon-lit hills, the man and wife received the richest blessings of their choicest friends. At 10 o'clock the train bearing the bridal party reached this city, all unconscious that one of its fairest daughters had reached her blessed destiny. The gay company of friends accompanied the young couple to Evansville and re turned on the early Tuesday morning train. Mr. and Mrs. Stevens went to Chicago and the lady region. They will take a Southern trip and will be entertained by friends in several states.
The wedding was one of the most unique and elegant that has ever taken place in our country, and the contract ing parties are to be congratulated over their originality and taste.
The groom is one of the well known business men in Nashville. He is the proprietor of the Nicholson house, the most elegant hotel in the city. He is well known in the Southern States as a gentleman of courtly manners, a warm heart and the broadest culture. It is unnecessary to speak of the many experiences of the bride. For many years she has been prominent in our social circles, and her womanly dig nity, genial disposition, artistic ac complishments and superior judgment will make her an ornament to the so ciety of her city home. The New Era extends the heartiest congratulations and may heaven's sweetest blessings rest upon them.

A CARD.
Judge Winfree Pays His Respects to Mr. Wm. Donaldson.
A. H. Anderson, my opponent for the office of County Judge, having charged me with an offense which, if true, affects my standing as County Judge and would make me amenable to the law, and as the report is being very actively circulated in portions of the county that have been canvassed and as I will have no chance to meet it, I take this method of reaching the people. It is charged that I rented a room to one Wm. Donaldson who used it for gambling purposes.
The proof that Equine Anderson ad duces is the affidavit of Donaldson, who says that he rented the room. Intending to use it for gambling purposes and that he is satisfied I knew his intentions.
How much the sworn statement of Don aldson is to be credited will appear from the following affidavit of Samuel Doss, a man who is opposed to me politically and will not vote for me.
Affiant, Doss says that he was on the grand jury when Will Donaldson was before it and questioned about his gambling in his room, and on his oath he denied it and swore that no gambling had been permitted in it, and denied that he knew of any gambling house be ing run in the city of Hopkinsville.
S. Doss.
Subscribed and sworn to before me by S. Doss, July 28, 1886.

J. R. Dade made affidavit to substan tially the same statements made by Equi ne Doss.
If he swore the truth before the grand jury, he did not in his affidavit. How ever, in the part that affects me, he only says he believes or is satisfied that I knew his intentions. The real truth is known by the following affidavit:
The proof that Equine Anderson ad

to the acre.
The three Missionary Societies of the Baptist Church will give a lawn party

Mr. H. G. Hanna, living in the Salu patiently for the arrival of the next wagons to relieve the pressure.
